Now convert your documents between Microsoft® Word and most major word processing programs—and keep the formatting.

Discover Word Exchange, the only document conversion program endorsed by Microsoft for use with Microsoft Word. That's because Word Exchange offers two-way conversion with all formatting kept intact. Now you can use Microsoft Word to edit and print documents created in another word processing program.

Word Exchange makes sense for anyone moving up to Microsoft Word from another word processing package, because it lets you continue to work with all the documents you created prior to the switch. Word Exchange also makes it easy to share Microsoft Word documents and information with colleagues who use different word processing programs.

Word Exchange lets you transfer documents one at a time or batch up to 250 documents per conversion. And anyone in the office can use Word Exchange; consistent menus and on-line help make the process easy to learn and accessible. Best of all, Word Exchange offers full, two-way exchange between Microsoft Word (Version 3.0 and higher) and all these other word processing packages:

- DEC® WPS PLUS (DX) Versions through 1.0
- DisplayWrite™ 2, 3, & 4 Releases through 1.00
- MultiMate® Versions through Advantage™ II
- Samna Word Versions through Samna Word IV
- Wang PC (IWP) Versions through 2.6
- WordPerfect™ Versions through 5.0
- WordStar® Releases through 5.0
- WordStar® 2000 Releases through 3.00
- Volkswriter 3 Versions through 1.0
- ASCII
- DCA/RFT<sup>1</sup>
- DCA/FFT (To Only)
- Navy DIF (From Only)

Word Exchange supports a wide range of document formatting and printing functions, including:

bold	centering	required page breaks
underline	line spacing	page numbers
superscript	headers and footers	word wrap
subscript	margins	footnotes
overstrike	paragraph indent	columns
tabs	hanging indent	fonts

Note: Although Word Exchange supports all these functions, they are not all offered by every word processing program.

Word Exchange even converts ASCII files received from electronic mail or information services, scanners, and other word processing software not supported by the Word Exchange program.

Word Exchange is based on the proven best seller Software Bridge, the program voted by PC Magazine as the Editor's Choice in WP translation software. Called a "runaway winner," the editors said that Software Bridge did a "superior job in converting the test files."

You can order Word Exchange directly from SCC; just use the order form on the back cover. It's only $69.95, plus $5.00 shipping and handling. Site licenses and volume discounts are available.

Word Exchange is fully guaranteed, so you can try it without risk. If after 30 days you are not completely satisfied, return the package to SCC for a full refund.

System requirements: IBM® PC/XT, PC/AT, or compatible with 384K memory; DOS 2.0 or higher.
